

Regional seminars in Germany

University of Wuerzburg
Computer Science Department

In October two seminars were given to inform the students about the Mission Idea Contest and its rules for participation. The first seminar was scheduled on Tuesday, October 26th, 9:00 am, a second seminar was held on October 26th, 12:00 am. The presentation of Marco Schmidt was related to the general concept of nano satellites and its opportunities for innovative research as well as the Mission Idea Contest itself.

Most of the students were participants from the space master program of the local institute. Furthermore interested students outside the University of Wuerzburg were invited. In total 49 students attended the seminars.

During the presentation discussions related to the requirements and evaluation criteria came up. Especially questions to the evaluation of the feasibility were raised from the students.

Two student groups already expressed their interest to submit a proposal.

Best regards
